

Meeks Mountain Trails

Welcome to the 25526 trail plan with nearly 7 miles completed and an expected 26 miles in the next 5 years.

Trail Use: Hiking, Running, Biking

All trails feature two-way traffic; please yield to climbing riders. Bike traffic has the right-of-way at all times. Advanced trails may include steep grades, large boulders, loose rocks, drops, fallen trees, and other significant trail hazards.

Bikes: A helmet is required for all riders. We highly recommend the following routine for all: Pre-Ride, Ride, Re-Ride. Know your limits.

Pets: Please keep your lovely pets under control. If you're not confident in their behavior, please use a leash to avoid collisions or accidents.

Trash: Simple. Carry out what you carry in.

In the event of an emergency, call 911.

Have fun and be nice to nature and others.
Love,
The MMT Trail Team

- 1.3 Miles

City Street (0.2 Miles): Short, but a sweet introduction. Singletrack with a small creek crossing with some exposed rocks.

City Park (0.5 Miles): Doubletrack mixed with singletrack. A stiff climb with switchbacks to warm up the legs or a blistering descent from the Middle Ridge connection.

Middle Ridge (0.2 Miles): Gradual doubletrack climb. Prepares the mind and lungs for the rest of the red/white blaze.

236 (0.5 Miles): Fast, flowy, with some roots and rocks exposed.

Bad Benches (1.2 Miles): Rolling, relatively smooth singletrack with a couple punchy climbs. A short, dicey, steep section of rocky, rooty, technical switchbacks along the east rim.

Art and Lola Lane (0.6 Miles): A good intro for beginners. Fairly smooth doubletrack to begin - then advances to some technical singletrack to develop the skills.

Wageman's Wall (0.9 Miles): Hike yo bike! Serious exposure, but scenic. Advanced tricky, technical singletrack with rock gardens, loose rocks, obstacles, and large rock drops. No rest in either direction. A spicy treat for experts or those wanting to test their next-level skills.

HomeblDR (0.7 Miles): Should have been called homewrckr for its fast technical design. Combine with Wageman's Wall clockwise and enjoy a fast, winding descent. Choose the rock drop shortcut for the win.

Newhouse Dive (0.2 Miles): A short downhill for its namesake. Rocks, roots, and tight switchbacks. It's preferable to use a downhill approach.

Cease and Desist (0.2 Miles): Downhill Gap Jump. That's all you need to know. Experts only.

Double white blazes are shortcuts. Provides a connection between the different trails.
